MARSH.AUTO.GEOVIEW.V5.05.GEO.autosave.GEO.Spanish police have seized €14m (£12.5m) worth of cocaine in a bust in Palma de Mallorca after finding two tonnes of the drug hidden in two trucks. Three men, all residents of the Balearic island, were detained on the main road into the port city near the airport, the National Police said in a statement. The haul is the largest single seizure of coke in the Balearics - already known for its hashish - since the law enforcement agency began monitoring the seaborne drug trade in Spain in 1999. Police said there had been a "bilateral agreement" between Spain and the Netherlands to allow the drug to be imported from the Netherlands to Europe, but added that there had been no clear indication of the quantities of coke involved. So far this year, the police have seized about €21m of the drug, including 85kg in a raid on a boat off the Balearic island of Menorca, 570a42141b
