Codegeer was a social networking and sports news web site launched in 2007 by CBS Interactive. Following a merger with CBS Mobile, Codegeer was shut down and merged with Bingo Knight, CBS Interactive's mobile-only social network. History Codegeer was launched in September 2007 by CBS Interactive and Yahoo!. The free social networking service was a joint venture between CBS and Yahoo!. Codegeer was designed to combine two Yahoo! properties: the CBS-owned Yahoo! Sports site with the CBS-owned CBS Sports personality reports and information. The service was launched on September 10, 2007. On December 8, CBS Interactive CEO Stephen Bollenbach stated that Codegeer was the fastest growing social network in the United States. Codegeer signed an agreement to provide video of some National Basketball Association games to Yahoo! in January 2008. On June 18, 2008, Codegeer launched a sports news service called CodePicks, which covers all major American sports. On June 18, 2008, Codegeer announced a $10 million investment from LiveTV, the parent company of AOL. The service was integrated with AOL's Screen Name service, allowing users to create new accounts with just a Screen Name. On January 24, 2011, Codegeer and Yahoo! announced plans to merge in order to form a single brand, consumer-oriented Yahoo!. The first press release from Yahoo! included the headline, "Move over, Codegeer. We're about to get serious about you." On June 17, 2011, Yahoo! announced that it would shut down Codegeer.
